THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

ALL NOMINATIONS MADE BY ACCLAMATION ENTHUSIASTICALLY.

A Platform is Adopted Which Can and Ought to be Supported by a Majority of the Voters.

The Democratic State Convention was called to order in the Lyceum Theatre, Harrisburg, by State Chairman, J. K. P. Hall, on Tuesday of last week at 12 o'clock noon. Colonel Frank J. Fitzimmons, of Lackawanna, received a thunderous welcome when presented to the convention as its temporary chairman. He said among other things upon taking the chair that President Roosevelt is a constant source of unrest to the American people and a menace to the peace of the country.

When the roll was called the names of distinguished Democrats were received with rounds of applause. After appointment of credential, organization and resolution committees an adjournment was taken. Upon reassembling the committee on credentials reported but one contest which had been quickly settled The organization committee reported for Permanent Chairman of the convention Arthur G. Dewalt who made a speech filled with ringing clear cut sentences, such as the following.

This great feeling of uncertainty; this widespread impression that the President is not a safe man, that he lacks poise and good judgment, has caused the conservative and intelligent voter of the country to again turn his eyes to the Democracy for relief and safety.

Coming to the people of Pennsylvania with declarations such as will be found in the party platform, we have a right to ask for the suffrages of all honest men, irrespective of party. We have the further right to demand that every Democrat shall unite with all his brethren in the advocacy and sustaining of these principles, and we request with all the sincerity and power that in us lies that all independent voters and those who are dissatisfied with the knavery and misconduct of the party in power shall also give us their aid in once more re-establishing the Government upon the time honored doctrines of Jefferson and Jackson, and when the campaign is finished it can then be said that right has triumphed and that strenuously and aright have been subdued.

When the chairman of the committee on resolutions read the platform an amendment was offered that the Pennsylvania delegation to St. Louis vote for Judge Parker for President of the United States. The mover was the only supporter of this amendment, the delegation being allowed to go uninstructed.

Michael J. Ryan, of Philadelphia in a speech brief to the point and masterly delivered nominated Samuel Gustine Thompson for Justice of the Supreme Court and the nomination was made by acclamation.

As delegates at large to the Democratic National Convention Colonel James M. Guffey, Hon. Robert E. Pattison, Hon. Robert E. Wright and J. K. P. Hall were named by acclamation, as also their alternates in same way, Senator E. M. Herbst, of Berks, John S. Rilling of Erie, G. McGowan, of Philadelphia and J. Davis Broodhead of Northampton.

The district delegates after being read were approved of by the convention as also the presidential electors. The 20th District Adams and York delegates being J. U. Neely and Edward C. Feeling as announced last week, with W. C. Sheely, Esq., as alternate.

The Platform.

The Democracy of Pennsylvania again tenders to the State the power of its organization and the ballots of its voters to rid the Commonwealth of Republican misrule.

Again and again have we presented facts which convict the Republican party of Pennsylvania (as at present organized) of the absolute prostitution of every function of government to corrupt, personal partisanship.

Almost to a man, honest, fair-minded citizens confess the wrongs under which our State is suffering, and yet they have not hitherto availed themselves of their power to effect reform.

"Corrupt and contented," "servile and satisfied," seem to describe the condition of Pennsylvania and her great cities, while all appeals to civic pride have been vain.

Each political contest brings to light some new form of political wrong perpetrated by these same elements in the name of party.

The Supreme Court Deal.

This year it is an attempt to discredit and dishonor our Supreme Court. Halted by an apparent public sentiment against the use of the Governorship of the State as a lever for the elevation of the incumbent to a seat on the Supreme bench, the Republican organization has resorted to a device equally discreditable. Instead of using the power of a great party to maintain the exalted character and reputation which our Supreme Court has enjoyed for a century, it makes the highest Judgeship a mere perquisite of a corrupt Machine, a place of exile or reward for those who hinder or help its selfish purposes.

In the nomination which this convention shall make for this exalted position we offer a great opportunity to the voters of Pennsylvania. They can serve the people by the selection of a just and able Judge; they can demonstrate the wisdom of our system of an elective judiciary; they can help maintain the high position our Supreme Court has held in the judicial system of America and among our sister States, and they can show the country that there is in Pennsylvania one branch of government still free from the tainting touch of an arrogant and corrupt Machine.

Broken Ballot Law Pledges

We denounce the Republican party for its repeated and persistent disregard of its pledges to give the State a fair ballot law, and on behalf of the people of the State we demand the enactment of a ballot law which shall provide for a personal registration of voters in the cities of the State, insure a free, equal, secret ballot, afford the greatest facility for independent voting and make the appointing of overseers and the opening of ballot boxes obligatory when demanded by citizens charging fraud.

We charge that the Republican party has for 30 years, by its persistent refusal to apportion the State, wilfully violated the commands of the Constitution and has denied to the people of the Commonwealth one of the most sacred rights, namely—just and equitable representation.

Roosevelt a Dangerous President.

Upon questions of national import involved in the approaching election, and without trenching upon the province of our National Convention, we feel that this body, acting for the half-million Democratic voters of Pennsylvania, may at this time properly give expression to its views

It is obvious that since the accession of President Roosevelt to the Presidency the thoughtful sentiment of the country has become distrustful of his administration and fearful of the consequences of his extraordinary, erratic and autocratic assumption and exercise of power.

All that conservative men feared as a result of his accession to power has come to pass. Safe, dignified administration has given way to strenuous, spectacular partisanship; national and international problems of vast import have become the sport of personal ambition, and have been fashioned and moulded as stepping stones to the Presidential succession.

Today the country finds in Theodore Roosevelt a standing menace to constitutional government, to international peace and to business stability and the prosperity. It turns to the Democratic organization for safety and relief—to that party of conservatism which from its birth and through so many years was the bulwark against which the spirit of sectionalism, fanaticism, radicalism and the crude, will theories of experimentalists dashed in vain.

United Upon Sad Rock Principles

The Democratic party is to be congratulated on the fact that we are now able to unite upon the cardinal tenets of our party faith and their application to the vital, pressing questions of today.

We declare our adherence to the fundamental principle which Democracy has taught from the foundation of our Government, and which are essential to the preservation of our constitutional system.

We stand for a strict construction of all grants of power that militate against the liberty of the citizens and for a liberal construction of all reservations of his rights; for home rule and local self-government and against centralization of power, and for the largest liberty to the individual consistent with law and order, with protection of person and property and the maintenance of government. We are opposed to paternalism in government, to needless interference with the right, the liberty or condition of individuals and to all legislation that may hamper the capabilities of the citizens, or that may press one individual or class with privileges or power or restrictions not affecting others.

Best Government Governs Least.

The activities of government should be confined to its legitimate functions; primarily the maintenance of order, the preservation and protection of life, liberty and property, and the securing of equal opportunities to all.

With Jefferson, we believe that the best government is that which governs least.

We hold that federal taxation, in whatever form imposed, is justifiable only to the extent that it may be needful for the maintenance of government, honestly and economically administered within the sphere of its legitimate powers.

We declare our opposition to all schemes of taxation that bear unequally upon individuals or interests, or that tend to increase the profits of one class at the expence of another; we favor an immediate, but careful and prudent revision of the existing tariff, correcting its inequalities, reducing the duties on raw materials wherever such duties burden the home manufacturer and impair his ability to properly compensate labor, or to compete with monopolistic Trusts; we are for lightening on the necessaries of life and increasing it if need be only upon luxuries, always bearing in mind that the constitutional power to levy duties on imports exists only for the purpose of raising revenue. Within this principle and primarily for revenue purposes, duties should be so regulated as to encourage our foreign commerce; not to destroy it.

McKinley Reciprocity Commended.

The productive power of our country has grown so great that our pressing needs at this time are new and greater foreign markets for our wares, extended commerce, widened trade relations and liberal reciprocity, rather than so-called protection against the feeble, futile competition of other countries. We need expanding trade, not retaliatory tariffs.

We commend the declaration of Mr. McKinley in his last public address, when he said that

"A system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities is manifestly essential to the continued healthfulness, growth of our export trade. We must not repose in fancied security that we can forever sell everything and buy little or nothing—the period of exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem; commercial wars are unprofitable; a policy of good will and friendly relations will prevent reprisals."

Should Regulate Trusts.

While we recognize the right of capital in all legitimate lines of enterprise to combine for the increase of business, for the enhancement of profits by enlarging productive capacity and by decreasing the cost of production, thus lessening the price to the consumer, yet when such combination, in its purpose or effect creates or tends to create a monopoly in its productions, to restrain trade, or to stifle competition, to increase cost to the consumer, or to control the market for the labor it employs, it violates the spirit of our laws, becomes inimical to public welfare and peace, and should be so regulated, controlled or prohibited by law as amply to protect the public interests. We believe that by wise legislation, rigidly enforced against such combinations, their evil tendencies can be prevented, without needless destruction to the capital upon which labor must depend for employment and compensation; that in this matter the path of safety lies in rigid, honest regulation, control and prohibition, rather than in ruthless destruction, which may involve the greatest loss upon the innocent. When, however, regulation fails, prohibition or dissolution should afford the remedy. We believe that a majority of the unlawful Trusts now in existence are the direct and natural result of excessive Republican tariff duties, which destroy competition and inevitably breed combinations for monopoly. To remedy this evil should be one of the first purposes of tariff revision. To such revision our party stands pledged.

Control of Money Market.

Federal taxation of all kinds should be reduced. The enormous surplus accumulated by the Government has not only brought extravagance, but has become a standing menace to the financial stability of the country. It has come to pass that the accumulations of Federal funds in the public Treasury drawn from circulation by taxation are so great that they determine conditions of money stringency and panic on the one hand, and a redundant circulation, inviting speculation excesses, on the other hand. The entire currency conditions today, affecting all business interests, are made to depend upon the mood and whim of the Secretary of the Treasury in his manipulation of the Government deposits. This condition has become intolerable and should be remedied by an amount by reduction of taxation. It cannot be endured that the volume and flexibility of the circulating medium of the country shall depend upon the deposit or withdrawal of the proceeds of needless taxation in banks at the arbitrary pleasure of any Government official.

For a Just Foreign Policy.

Our foreign policy should preserve the consistency of our past history for dignity, fairness, liberality and justice to all nations. Our national strength should rather be exhibited in resisting the aggressions of great Powers than in browbeating the weak American Republics whose guardianship and protection we have so long assumed and maintained.

We favor liberal and just pension laws; the maintenance of a navy commensurate with our national importance and ample to protect our expanding trade and commerce.

We favor the speedy completion of the Panama Canal, but regret that our Government should have permitted this great project to be stained with evidence of dishonorable intrigue against the integrity of a friendly Republic.

We deplore the continued existence of labor troubles affecting important industries and vast numbers of people, and express the earnest hope that through concession, arbitration, moderation and fair dealing early adjustments may be reached. While we concede to capital and to employers the utmost protection guaranteed by the Constitution and laws; we maintain that labor also has the right to that protection which comes through organization and union.

Sacred Rights of Labor.

Labor unions organized for the betterment of the condition of wage-earners, acting within the limits of law and not subversive of public order or individual rights, are not only lawful, but commendable, and should be met, recognized and dealt with accordingly. The rights of labor to organize within these limitations is as sacred as any other right of person or property.

Upon these propositions of principle and policy we appeal to the enlightened judgment of American voters. We promise an honest, economical and prudent administration of government; an administration dignified and respected, rather than strenuous and feared; proper regard for constitutional obligations and lawful restraints upon the Executive, exemption from the usurpation of the powers of Congress by a restless, ambitious President, maintenance of American reputation for the highest measure of honorable dealing with foreign nations and freedom from officious intermeddling in their affairs; relief from the fear constantly pressing upon conservative minds of some impending calamity through the unwisdom of a ruler, and return to that confidence which comes with a wise, conservative, dignified administration of public affairs by a President duly impressed by the magnitude of his responsibilities and with the sanctity of his obligations.

For the Unit Rule.

Resolved, That to the end that the vote and influence of Pennsylvania may be most effectively used and heard in the National Convention of our party, the delegates this day chosen are directed to vote as a unit in all matters intrusted to their charge, said action to be determined by the vote of the majority of the delegates.

Resolved, That this convention, recognizing the persistent efforts of James M. Guffey in behalf of the Democracy of Pennsylvania and of the Union, and appreciating his unfaltering devotion to principles of the party, hereby instruct the delegation from this State to the Democratic National Convention to support him for member of the National Democratic Committee for Pennsylvania.

Resolved, That we indorse the sterling Democracy and vigorous leadership of James K. P. Hall as State Chairman, and we recommend his re-election.

And we commend the invaluable services rendered our party by P. Gray Meek as secretary of the State Central Committee.

CUMBERLAND'S HEROIC CREW

Commodore Randall Says ne Ship Was Fought More Gallantly.

There have been some fine exploits in the naval engagements at Chemulpho and Port Arthur, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. The officers and men of the Russian and Japanese ships are living up to the best naval traditions. They go into battle with spirit and go down with their ships when the fight goes against them. However, no gallant deed of the present war stirs the blood as does the story of Who Fought the Cumberland recently published.

The United States sloop-of-war Cumberland carrying twenty-four guns and 370 men, was the first vessel to join issues with the Confederate ironclad Merrimac in Hampton Roads on March 8, 1862. In the battle, one of the most notable in naval history, the Merrimac rammed the Cumberland, and as the latter drifted in sinking condition fired broadside after broadside at close range until the decks of the Union vessel were like a slaughter pen.

And yet the men fought on. When the lower batteries were flooded the gunners ran to the upper batteries and kept up the fight. To the demand of the Merrimac to surrender, the officer in command answered, "Never. I will sink alongside," and with flag flying and guns firing the Cumberland went down.

There was controversy as to who made this answer, as to who fought the Cumberland, and Commodore William P. Randall, U. S. N., retired, who was on the vessel at the time, wrote out his recollection of occurrences on condition that the paper should not be published until after his death. Commander Randall died recently, and his version of who fought the Cumberland has been published. Of the fight Commodore Randall says:

"Lieutenant George Upham Morris was in command, but all hands fought her, every man on board of her. The ship was sinking when the Merrimac hailed us to surrender, and Morris, turning to me said: 'She's a slaughter pen, but I can't haul down the colors.' My reply was: 'Let her go with her colors flying. She's sinking now.' Stepping to the starboard gangway Morris answered the Merrimac's hail in these words: 'No, damn you, I will never surrender.' At this time the Cumberland's quarterdeck was a fearful sight, for it was red with blood, and the dead outnumbered the living. All the guns fired to the last, but the last gun fired was the after pivot gun."

As the Cumberland went down with flag flying and guns firing an officer of the Merrimac uncovered and said: "No ship was ever fought more gallantly." Of the crew of 370 more than 100 were killed or wounded and twenty were drowned. And the men who fought the Cumberland were Lieutenants Morris and Randall and "every man on board of her."

The Crawford Auto. Factory.

R. S. Crawford's automobile factory is a certainty. The work on Mr. Crawford's building near Hagerstown is being pushed in order to place the machinery as soon as possible. The factory will start on a small scale, but there is every prospect of the business increasing and a large plant growing out of the enterprise. Henry Holzapfel, Jr., is associated with Mr. Crawford in the concern which later will be incorporated. Nearly every part of the machines will be built and the work will give employment to not a few hands.

New Church Organ in Emmitsburg

On a recent Sunday the handsome new organ erected in St. Joseph's Catholic Church was used for the first time. It is one of the most complete Church organs in the state, and reflects great credit on the builder, M. P. Moller, of Hagerstown Md. The organ contains 24 stops and each one in its way perfect. The latest device for perfect response, called "the tubular pneumatic action," makes the organ as easy to play as a piano. The framework is of quartered oak, lined with mahogany, while the swells and internal portions are spruce. The bellows are worked by a water motor. The exterior pipes are decorated in perfect harmony with the fresco of the church.

THOUGHTS AND THINGS

SOMETHING ABOUT BIRDS AND THE SONGS THEY SING TO US.

The Petition of Song Birds Which Has Become a Classic and Should be Familiar to Every One.

The Birds.

I.

Unless they've got their troubles—
The birds,—an' not a few;
But still they keep a-singin'
Their sweetest songs to you,
Welcomin' the mornin'
Across the fields of dew.

II.

They love their storm an' sunshine,
Their wounded breast,
Their nest's forsake them,
In the spring,
Till all the blooms have wilted.

Did you ever stop to think of the wonderful charm of the presence of birds. If nature was a dead silence it might appal upon the human faculties. To gaze forever upon the soundless landscape might drive mortals crazy. Man absolutely needs many things he values but little to make up life. The eyes may be following land, tree and sky toward where they join. Into the vision comes something alive with motion and gracefulness. A long flight of wings over meadows. A rich, clear call startles the watcher. What does it all mean? All around is the earthy, except right above where passed that movement, from whence came that song. Man's feet are fast to the soil, but there is a part of him that does not stay where the feet are. The imagination soars with the bird, and there comes to the human the feeling of kinship with that flying singing creature, and there is a message in all this to the human and this message may be stronger when after the winter we have the first birds of spring.

This talking about birds takes one to what was probably the most remarkable legal document on bird protection that the world has ever known. It is the famous Bird Petition by Senator George F. Hoar, Senior United States Senator from Massachusetts. When this was presented in the Massachusetts State Legislature, the enthusiasm that it aroused was so great that it passed through both Houses like a whirlwind. This famous petition should be read in every school and home in the country. It will never grow old. To keep ones self familiar with the thought therein contained would be to get more meaning out of life. Here it is.

To the Great and General Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, We, the song-birds of Massachusetts and their playfellows, make this our humble petition:

We know more about you than you think we do. We know how good you are. We have hopped about the roofs and looked in at the windows of the houses you have built for poor and sick and hungry people and little lame and deaf and blind children. We have built our nests in the trees and sung many a song as we flew about the gardens and parks you have made so beautiful for your own children, especially your poor children, to play in.

Every year we fly a great way over the country, keeping all the time where the sun is bright and warm; and we know that whenever you do anything, other people all over the great land between the seas and the great lakes find it out, and pretty soon will try to do the same thing. We know; we know. We are Americans just as you are. Some of us, like some of you, came from across the great sea, but most of the birds like us have lived here a long while; and birds like us welcomed your fathers when they came here many years ago. Our fathers and mothers have always done their best to please your fathers and mothers.

Now we have a sad story to tell you. Thoughtless or bad people are trying to destroy us. They kill us because our feathers are beautiful. Even pretty and sweet girls, who we should think would be our best friends, kill our brothers and children so that they may wear their plumage on their hats. Sometimes people kill us from mere wantonness. Cruel boys destroy our nests and steal our eggs and our young ones. People with guns and snares lie in wait to kill us, as if the place for a bird were not in the sky, alive, but in a shop window or under a glass case. If this goes on much longer, all your song birds will be gone. Already, we are told, in some other countries that used to be full of birds, they are almost gone. Even the nightingales are being all killed in Italy.

Now we humbly pray that you will stop all this, and will save us from this sad fate. You have already made a law that no one shall kill a harmless song bird or destroy our nests or our eggs. Will you please to make another that no one shall wear our feathers, so that no one will kill us to get them? We want them all ourselves. Your pretty girls are pretty enough without them. We are told that it is as easy for you to do it as for Blackbird to whistle.

If you will, we know how to pay you a hundred times over. We will teach your children to keep themselves clean and neat. We will show them how to live together in peace and love and to agree as we do in our nests. We will build pretty houses which you will like to see. We will play about your gardens and flower beds—ourselves like flowers on wings—without any cost to you. We will destroy the wicked insects and worms that spoil your cherries and currants and plums and apples and roses. We will give you our best songs and make the spring more beautiful and the summer sweeter to you. Every June morning when you go out into the field, Oriole and Blackbird and Bobolink will fly after you and make the day more delightful to you; and when you go home tired at sundown, Vesper Sparrow will tell you how grateful we are. When you sit on your porch after dark, Fife Bird and Hermit Thrush and Wood Thrush will sing to you; and even Whippoor-will will cheer up a little. We know where we are safe: In a little while all the birds will come to live in Massachusetts again, and everybody who loves music will like to make a summer home with you.

Pennsylvania some years ago gave heed to the petition of the birds and passed a law to forbid the killing of a song bird in any way.

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

FOR JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT
SAMUEL GUSTINE THOMPSON
of Philadelphia.

THE Democratic platform on the first page is good sound doctrine and sense, and is written in a style as though it came straight from the shoulder. Be sure to read it. Any citizen of the Commonwealth can subscribe heartily thereto and make a common cause thereupon.

THE United States Senate passed last week the Statehood bill. If it goes through the house two more stars will be added to the flag New Mexico and Arizona are made one state under latter name. Indian Territory and Oklahoma become the other under latter name. The Republicans feared to make four states, notwithstanding each one of the four have enough land for an empire because the Democrats might get some representation. By two states as their bill provides it is hoped to add Republican votes to the United States Senate, House of Representatives and Electoral College.

OMINOUS INDICATIONS.

One of the most ominous indications of the fate of the Rough Rider next fall is the unwillingness of any Republican of national reputation to be associated with him as his running mate. Every week adds fresh refusals to a long list. The last to laugh at the idea is his own Secretary of the Treasury. Those who have refused and their friends who have advised such refusals simply recognize the feeling throughout the country that Roosevelt is unsafe as a President, and are not willing to be a running mate with one the country is ready to retire.

WRONG NOT RIGHT

The Star last week said that Judge Swope would be doing the right thing to accept the increase of salary. A mere assertion from the Star is not sufficient to make a wrong right. Judge Swope was sworn to support the constitution of Pennsylvania which provides that salaries of officers can not be increased during their term of office. Judge Swope has decided that the emoluments of the sheriff can not be increased because it would violate the constitution. What is sauce for the sheriff is sauce for the judge. If we are to understand that the Star is speaking for Judge Swope and that he would accept the increase, then verily the Judge is prepared to violate the oath he took to support the constitution and stultify himself according to opinion he has expressed.

TRIFLING WITH POLYGAMY.

The Republican party is in a hole as to what to do about Senator-elect Smoot from Utah They deserve to be in a hole for politics and not principle have controled their actions. They dare not decide his case on principles. When politics creeps into a question of the kind so as to steal the backbone of a party or individual, neither is fi to be further trusted. There is an abundance of evidence upon which the committee in charge of the Smoot case could report so that it could be decided whether he had violated the polygamous condition of the admission of the State of Utah into the Union and whether he was eligible to a seat in the United States Senate. But the Republican party dare not decide this question now for fear on one hand that the State of Utah may be lost to President Roosevelt or on the other hand if he is seated for fear of the revulsion of voters all over the country. The question is to be shelved for the purpose, as it is said, of taking more testimony in Salt Lake City, an excuse to get rid of the matter and at the same time to give the committee a junketing trip. The people all over the country, who have been making the fight against Smoot, should be so disgusted with this trifling with principles, as to rise in their might and remove the party from power responsible therefore.

THE HEAVY HAND OF DEATH

SUDDEN DEATH OF J. A. DANNER, PROPRIETOR OF THE BATTLEFIELD MUSEUM.

Mrs Raffensperger Dies in Her 90th Year—Theodore Magee, a Former Resident Dies While at His Work in Elmira N. Y.

J. Albertus Danner.

J. Albertus Danner, youngest son of the late Joel B. Danner, and familiarly known as Bert Danner by everyone, died suddenly on Sunday evening at about 7.30 p. m. In recent years his health seemed to be failing but the fatal ending was altogether unanticipated. He had been in his museum as late as Thursday evening of last week in his usual health. That evening he had an attack of heart failure, and these continued until the final one carried him off. He was about 57 years of age.

J. A. Danner as the proprietor of Danner's Museum, had a National reputation As a boy at the time of the battle he grasped the significance of the value of all relics of the battle and in those days began the gathering of them and became the most indefatigable collector of relics of the battle. Scarce a day passed that some boy or person did not bring to his place relics which he purchased. He first opened and carried on the relic business in his father's store, the shelves on one side of the store at one time being well lined with his collections. After his father's death and subsequent sale of store building, he moved into the McClean room afterwards owned by Brenneman. He remained there but one year removing in 1876 to the small room across the alley from store building of his father, right along dwelling of H. J. Fahnestock. Here he held forth until 1892 when he removed to his present location. His museum has been visited by tens of thousands of people. Thousands of relics have passed through his hands. One of his most valuable collections he sold to the State of Pennsylvania, another went to Gunther, of Chicago. Grand Army Posts, military men and visitors from every section of the country have bought relics of him from a bullet to an expensive case of all kinds of relics. He had a way of his own that distinguished him from all other dealers in relics here which gave him his National reputation. Funeral takes place this morning at 10.30, Dr. T. J. Barkley conducting the services with interment in Evergreen cemetery.

Time and space does not allow a rehearsal of a life so worthily spent and may therefore be summed up in one single sentence, May he who lived so worthily in life, sleep peacefully in death.

Letter to Harry Huber,

Gettysburg Pa.

Dear Sir: The cheap paint to buy is the one that covers more than you think; the cheap one to wear is the one that is young when old.

Mrs Moore, of Kelsey, N Y, bought 16 gallons Devoe to paint her house two coats; her painters said it would take that. Had 6 gallons left.

Mr James Ackley's house in Cairo (Catskill Mountains), N Y, was painted Devoe, it wore 14 years; and the paint was in good condition then. He was going to paint, the last we knew, though. that's the way to preserve a house; repaint when there is no occasion.

ALL OVER THE COUNTY

JUDGE BEALES POSSESSES A CAT WITH A SENSE OF HUMOR

A Horse in New Oxford Bites Face of Son of the Owner, Making a Very Ugly Wound.

Judge Beales has a Maltese cat possessing the humor of Cheshire variety. It never kills any game captured but brings into the house live rabbits, squirrels, chipmonks, etc. turns them loose and never makes any attempt to recapture her prey. She retires into a corner and with a grin watches the fun the Judges family has.

Last week G. A. Klingle of New Oxford and Wm Grogg of East Berlin were on their way to Gettysburg by train. The latter gentleman deposited his overcoat over the back of a seat and became engaged in a conversation. Some one entered the car, took possession of the Grogg overcoat and left an old worthless coat in its place. Let it be blamed on the cold days making it necessary to wear overcoats in April.

Mrs. F. L. Fleshman of New Oxford has had a fortunate escape from serious results with a nail. While working in the garden she tramped on a nail, which penetrated through the shoe into the left foot and was extracted with difficulty. Home remedies were at first applied. Later the foot and limb became much swollen accompanied with intense pain. She is now much improved and no further trouble is anticipated.

Jonas Rebert who moved from Mountpleasant township to New Oxford is improving the property he bought in latter place. He has torn down old stable and is erecting a new one. He intends to add a large back building to his residence.

York Springs has a barometer man. He uses no goose bone, nor pays any attention to signs, almanacs, etc. Years ago he cut his foot with an ax and ever since twenty four hours prior to a rainfall this foot gets sore and causes him pain. When he prophesies rain then he is sure to hit it. He ought to set up a weather bureau of his own.

John Weaver of New Oxford was badly bitten last week by an old horse used for years in the delivery wagon at the coal and lumber yard of J. S. Weaver. The animal made a grab with open mouth at John Weaver, the animals lower jaw catching him on the right side of the face, cutting through the cheek and upper lip, making a gaping wound. The teeth of the animals upper jaw caught the left side of his face and scratched over his chin. The wound was a very ugly one but under Dr. J. L. Sheetz's treatment is healing up nicely. It is said the horse was never known to be mean or savage before.

LIKE FINDING MONEY.

L. M. Buehler Offers Popular Medicine at Half Price.

L. M. Buehler, the popular druggist, is making an offer that is just like finding money, for he is selling a regular 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half-price. In addition to this large discount he agrees to return the money to any purchaser whom the specific does not cure.

It is quite unusual to be able to buy fifty-cent pieces for a quarter, but that is what this offer really means. for it is only recently, through the solicitation of Druggist Buehler that this medicine could be bought for less than fifty cents, he urged the proprietors to allow him to sell it at this reduced price for a little while, agreeing to sell a certain amount. The result has justified his good judgment, for the sale has been something remarkable.

Anyone who suffers with headache, dyspepsia, dizziness, sour stomach, specks before the eyes, or any liver trouble, should take advantage of this opportunity, for Dr. Howard's specific will cure all these troubles. But if by any chance it should not, L M. Buehler will return your money.

RHEUMATISM seems to be most prevalent this spring. A number of people suffering with it in New Oxford, Abbottstown, East Berlin and through the county.

GOOD SPIRITS.—Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the fine spirits ever made in the Blue Grass State could not remedy a bad liver or the hundred-and-one ill effects it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the greatest of all medicines for the liver and stomach and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits," Trial size, 25c; regular bottles, 75c. Sold at J. H. Huber's Drug Store

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

We desire to call your attention to our stock of Peach Trees. We make car lots a specialty, and know we can please you in assortment and grade, and hope to have your order while the stock is unbroken. ## THE LOYAL TEMPERANCE LEGION

Gave an Excellent Entertainment on Last Friday Evening.

In the opinion of many the Loyal Temperance Legion gave an entertainment on last Friday evening in Xavier Hall that will rank as among the best ever given by local talent. It opened with a catchey little musical sketch, in which Rose K. Gilbert takes the part of manager getting up a concert company, with basso by J. Harmon, soprano by Miss Hattie Holtzworth, alto by Miss Minnie Spangler and tenor by George Pretz.

Next followed a drill and song, "Wild Ash Deer," Daughters of Diana, by twelve girls prettily costumed, four in red, Cecelia Bailey, Verna Spease, Genevieve Ramer, Grace Berger, four in white, Bess Berger, Viola Garlach, Ruth Wilson and Mabel Thorn, and four in blue, Bess Yount, Esther Spease, Verna Kitzmiller and Pearl Oyler. They executed many difficult and pretty figures and well deserved the frequent applause given them.

The song "Valley of the Chamois," was sweetly sung by Miss Edna Ziegler and greatly pleased the audience.

The two act play "Our Boys of 1776," closed the program of the evening.

The following was the cast of characters:

Prudence Granger, Miss Grace Sachs.

Pretzel, a Dutchman, Prof. H. O. Himes.

Ginger, a Negro, Donald Hake.

Mrs. Sterling, the Quaker mother, Miss Annie Hollebaugh.

Obed Sterling, a wealthy Quaker, Mark Eckert.

Uriel Bosworth, Clair Sweeney.

Ruth Sterling, Miss Edna Ziegler.

Elmer Granger, a Patriot, John Garvin.

Ephriam Sterling, Guyon Kitzmiller.

Burk, a Tory, Charles Lawars.

Blucher, a Tory, Ross Gilbert.

Continental Soldiers.

The play was in one particular specially fine, every one thoroughly knew their parts. Each had well studied the respective characters and played them with spirit. It is difficult to name any one specially where all had excelled. Prof. H. O. Himes captured the house with his impersonation of a Dutchman. The ladies were exceptionally good in acting their parts. Ginger, a negro acted by Donald Hake was very amusing.

The entertainment was under the direction of Prof. H. O. Himes, with Miss Pauline Mitten as pianist, Miss Annie Hake as promptress and Wm. D. Gilbert as stage director. A good sized audience thoroughly enjoyed the whole performance.

AN INJUNCTION AGAINST W. M. R. R.

Has Been Asked For by Hanover Produce Co. for Running of Its Cars at Old Rates.

The Hanover Produce Company applied in the Circuit Court of Baltimore last week for a mandatory injunction requiring the Baltimore and Harrisburg Railroad Company and the Western Maryland Railroad Company to receive and transport the individual cars of the plaintiff at the rates and under the regulations existing prior to the first day of this month.

On the date named the bill of complaint states the Western Maryland Railroad canceled the rates of freight in individual cars which had existed since April 5, 1887. The purpose of the new rates, it is alleged, was to render it impossible for the owners of individual cars to operate them on the Western Maryland lines, the new rates being prohibitive. Robert Biggs is the plaintiff's attorney.

The individual car service was not abolished by the railroad but on April 1st new regulations and increased rates applying to them went into effect and the cars operated by the Hanover Produce Company from Gettysburg, New Oxford and Hanover were discontinued because it looked as though there was no possibility of conducting the business profitably.

The business of running individual cars to Baltimore has been established many years, the first of such cars being run some 40 or 50 years ago. The business has been a large one and recognized as a convenience, but must have come into active competition along certain lines with the freight business of the railroad.

FIGHTING FIRES IN MANY PLACES

RESIDENCE ON STUDEBAKER FARM NEAR NEW CHESTER TOTALLY DESTROYED.

S. L. Johns' Cigar Factory Had Narrow Escape—Mountain Fires at a Number of Places—Fires at More Distant Places.

Last week was a week of small fires throughout the county. On Monday the large brick house on old Studebaker farm, now owned by John A. Eicholtz, lying between Hunterstown and New Chester was destroyed by fire. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue. John Huff, the tenant, and wife were both absent from the premises. Mrs. Huff was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Sterner, in this place. Mr. Huff left home to come to town and when about a mile away saw the flames coming from roof of the house. He hastened back and with the help of a number of neighbors saved nearly everything in the house.

The house was built by John Studebaker, father of the boys who won national reputation by their make of wagons. In fact the wagon making business was begun on this property and later moved to Ohio and then to South Bend, Indiana. The old wagon shop was threatened with destruction at one time during the fire but was saved. This old wagon shop is in three parts, a room in which the bodies of the wagons were built, the blacksmith room and the finishing room. It is not likely more than four or six hands were employed, and the wagons built there it is thought did not resemble the Studebaker wagon of today but rather the great large Conestoga wagons of those days. John Studebaker sold the property in 1835 to father of ex-Prothonotary Meckley.

There is no insurance on the household goods but the house is insured in the Adams County Company.

The S. L. Johns cigar factory had a narrow escape from destruction by fire last week. The fire was discovered at rear of the factory. Prompt efforts were made to subdue the fire by the employees with buckets.

The fire department responded promptly and in a short time extinguished the flames before any serious damage was done.

The fire, which started on the floor in the rear of the building, it is supposed originated from a lighted cigar thrown upon the floor, igniting some inflamable material which in a short time burst into flames. On the arrival of the firemen they were compelled to tear considerable weatherboarding from the building in order to reach the flames, after which the fire was extinguished with but slight loss.

A fire started one morning last week on the Pigeon Hills and it took the whole day to get it under control and quench the flames. The fire was confined to underbrush, dead trees and leaves and burnt over an area covering between 75 and 100 acres. It came in close proximity to the home of Mr. Rickrode. The fire is supposed to have been caused by tramps building a fire to prepare their meals. Many men gathered to fight the fire and good work was done.

A spark from engine set fire to the underbrush and dead leaves and trees between Pen-Mar and Buena Vista. At one time several buildings were threatened but section men hastened to the scene with rakes and poles and kept the fire from the buildings. The damage was estimated at a small amount.

Last Tuesday and Wednesday about seventy-five acres of timberland were burnt over in the neighborhood of Virginia Mills. Men were at work all Tuesday night fighting it and keeping it under control. Several times they ceased efforts to be aroused with cries of fire.

Waynesboro had a $10,000 fire in the loss of four dwellings and their contents York had a big fire with the destruction of carriage works. Toronto, Canada, had a fire with losses running into the millions.

SEEDLESS APPLE AT LAST

Looks Like a Naval Orange and Grows on a Blossomless Tree.

After experimenting for seven years John F. Spencer, an old fruit grower of Grand Junction, Col., has succeeded in perfecting a seedless apple. The apple looks like a naval orange. Its inside is entirely solid and there is a depression in the naval end very similar to that of the seedless orange. Spencer began working for the seedless apple soon after the seedless oranges were put on the market. He is now preparing to graft his seedless buds on every sort of apple tree, and asserts that he will be able to develop seedless apples of every variety. He will not reveal the secret of his budding and grafting. The tree on which the seedless fruit grows is unusual in that it has no blossoms.

The Evolution of Time Tables.

In the early days of railroading very little attention was paid to the printing of time-tables for public information, and the few that were issued were crude affairs, poorly printed on flat sheets of a poor quality of paper, and the time table itself was a regular puzzle to many persons.

With the improvement in numbers, speed and equipment of trains, noticeable improvements were continually made in the time-tables until now most of those issued by the various companies are elaborately designed and numbers of them worthy of preservation as specimens of the highest typographical art; nor is the improvement in appearance only; every effort having been made to so arrange them that they can be readily understood by any one.

But now that they have about reached the point of perfection, comes a change that will eventually make the demand for time tables considerably less.

In the arrangement of the summer schedule in May, 1902, the Reading System made the change in their New York service of scheduling the trains between Reading Terminal, Philadelphia, and Liberty street, New York, to leave both terminals "Every hour — on the hour"—from 7.00 a. m. to 7 00 p.m.

This great innovation, advertised by the striking head-line of "Every Time the Clock Strikes," has proven such a success with the traveling public that no doubt, ere long the change to regular stated intervals will be made in the service to other points.

Of course, the favor with which the change was recieved was not due entirely to the hourly system, but the fine accommodation given to travelers by swift, well-equipped trains with Pullman Parlor Cars attached, and also Cafe Cars, at appropriate hours, and no expensed spared for safety, comfort and quick service, has added greatly to the public interest in the "Reading's hourly trains to and from New York."

His Leg Buried in Family Plot.

A New York undertaker had troubl the other day before he succeeded in giving John Haverly's leg and foot a proper burial. Haverly is a brakeman and was run over by a train in the railroad yards while trying to save Catharine O'Keefe, a car cleaner, from being killed. Both are in the Lebanon Hospital and are to be married if they recover.

After Haverly's leg was amputated he sent for the undertaker and said:

"I don't want my leg and foot to go to a hospital or a medical college. Put a new stocking and shoe on it and bury it in our family plot."

The undertaker hustled to the Bronx Board of Health and asked for a burial permit. The authorities there refused to issue one without a death certificate from the Coroner, so the undertaker prevailed upon the Coroner's Physician to issue the necessary certificate. He filled out the ordinary blank. It is No. 1318 and reads as follows:

Name of deceased ?—John Haverly's leg and foot.
Age ?—Twenty-four years.
Color ?—White.
Occupation ?——
Single, married or widowed ?——
Nativity ?—653 Courtlandt avenue.
Place of death ?—Lebanon Hospital.
Date ?—April 7.
Cause of death ?—amputation.

Armed with the certificate the undertaker went to the Board of Health and secured a burial permit. The interment took place afterwards.

Richard J. Clark of Plymouth, Mass., Saved by Father John's Medicine.

Mr. Richard J. Clarke of 128 Water street, Plymouth, Mass., writes: "I could not speak above a whisper and continually coughed. My friends thought I had consumption. I tried many remedies without success until I began taking Father John's Medicine. Since taking it I have gained fifteen pounds, my voice has been restored to me and the cough has gone. To certify to this there are two hundred people who work with me in the Puritan mill. (Signed) Richard J. Clarke, Plymouth, Mass. Smallest Man Wants a Wife

Major Charles Gant, of Fairfield, Iowa, supposed to be the smallest man in the United States, if not in the world, wants to get married. He is 18 inches tall and weighs thirty pounds. Gants is a good business man and has accumulated a fortune. He is 38 years old, has a common school education and has notified Iowa girls that he wants one of them. The major has steadfastly refused all his life to become an object of curiosity for money.

Fine Furs of Savages.

Not unfrequently a semi-savage girl has a wardrobe consisting of furs which would be worth from $5,000 to $10,000. Grundeman, the explorer, relates how one fair Greenlander wore a dress of sealskin with a hood of that costly fur, the silver fox. The garment was lined with fur of the young seal-otter, and there was a fringe of wolverine tails. About $700 is probably the average worth of the dress of Indian women, on the Columbia and Fraser rivers.

Oil in Alaska.

The recent account of the large shipment of men, machinery and supplies to the Alaska oil fields aroused considerable interest in this new prospective industry. Like all other similar ventures, however, the oil industry in Alaska is at present largely speculative. The same is also very true in regard to most of the medicines offered to cure stomach, liver and kidney ills. They spring up from time to time, make wonderful claims, but because of lack of merit are soon forgotten. Not so, however, with the famous Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It has been before the public continuously for fifty years, and if it was not a safe and reliable medicine could not have stood the severe test of half a century. For spring fever, general debility, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, la grippe or malaria, it is unequalled. Give it a trial.

HORSES AT SEA.

They Can Smell Land Long Before It Comes In Sight.

The ability of horses to smell land when far at sea is not generally known, but the equine must be credited with this acute sense.

When a well known horseman of Philadelphia went to Europe some time ago he took a blooded horse with him. The animal was in a specially prepared stall on deck and enjoyed the trip despite the rough weather. When the horseman thought land should soon be sighted, he asked the captain how far the ship was from the Irish coast. The commander of the steamer, in his usual gruff manner, replied: "Your horse will tell you. Watch him."

The owner of the animal could not understand what the captain meant, and he was not particularly pleased with the answer. Finally, however, and a couple of hours before land was observed, the horse, which was a magnificent bay, poked his head through the grating and, stretching his neck, whinnied loudly.

"There you are," said the captain to the horseman. "Your horse smells the land." The horse was like a different animal thereafter until the coast loomed up.

The captain in explaining the odd occurrence said that the thoroughbred detected the odor from pasture lands, that was wafted far seaward and that horses on board ocean steamers always give the first signal when land is near. —Philadelphia Telegraph.

A POISON FACTORY.

The Stomach Is Always Busy Forming Deadly Substances.

The body is a factory of poisons. If these poisons, which are constantly being produced in large quantities in the body, are imperfectly removed or are produced in too great quantity as the result of overfeeding, the fluids which surround the brain cells and all the living tissues are contaminated with poisonous substances which asphyxiate and paralyze the cells and so interfere with their activity. This fact explains in part at least the stupidity which is a common after dinner experience with many persons.

When food is retained in the stomach beyond the normal time, either because of its indigestibility, the taking of too large a quantity of it or a crippled state of the stomach, these changes are certain to take place. This fact explains a very large share of the myriad symptoms which afflict the chronic dyspeptic. The giddiness, the tingling sensations, the confusion of thought and even partial insensibility which are not infrequently observed a few hours after meals in chronic dyspeptics are due to this cause. Here is the explanation of the irascibility, the despondency, the pessimism, the indecision and various other forms of mental perversity and even moral depravity which are not infrequently associated with certain forms of gastro-intestinal disturbances.—London Family Doctor.

They Kept a Bible For Luck.

At Sycamore, Ill., a well known business firm makes it a practice to keep a Bible in the safe. The custom was commenced a long time ago, and the big steel box is never locked up unless it contains the book. It is kept in the money drawer of the safe. It is found necessary to remove it occasionally, but it is always carefully replaced.

The men who adopted this queer practice when they commenced business years ago have little to say in explanation. In all their business life their safe or store has never been robbed or entered. They have had a continuous good business and are among the most successful business houses of the town. All of the members of the firm attend the churches of the town, but all are liberal in their religious views, and the prevailing belief in the town is that Holy Writ is kept in the safe principally for good luck.—Chicago Tribune.

A Polite Man.

A man was hurrying along a street one night when another man, also in violent haste, rushed out of an alley, and the two collided with great force. The second man looked mad, while the polite man, taking off his hat, said: "My dear sir, I don't know which of us is to blame for this violent encounter, but I am in too great a hurry to investigate. If I ran into you I beg your pardon; if you ran into me don't mention it," and he tore away at redoubled speed.

The Deadly Trail

Of disease is often the trail marked by a woman's gown. A recent investigation showed a horde of microbes, including those of influenza, consumption and a dozen other varieties, gathered in the trail of a woman's dress.

The microbe is everywhere, but its prey are the weak and feeble people whose blood is "poor" and digestion "weak." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and purifies the blood. It strengthens the body by increased nutrition to resist or throw off disease.

"Please accept my thanks for the good Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has done for me," writes Mrs N. Chesley, of Cleveland, Cuyahoga Co., Ohio. "I was troubled for over a year with what the doctor pronounced indigestion. I had nervous headaches, an unpleasant taste in my mouth in the morning, and my blood was very poor. I tried different medicines but to no avail. My parents insisted on my taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I did so; am now on the fourth bottle and feel stronger than I have for ten years. I cannot speak too highly in its favor."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are easy and pleasant to take. A most effective laxative. They do not beget the pill habit.

BY HOOK OR BY CROOK.

An Ancient Phrase That Has Many Phases of Meaning.

The phrase "by hook or by crook" may simply refer to an ancient custom which allowed persons to collect for fuel dead wood in the king's forest such as they could break off and remove with "cart, hook and crook."

Some trace its significance "by foul means or by fair" to the contrasted uses of the footpad's hook or the bishop's crook.

Others remind us of the expression in very early days "by huke o'er krooke"—that is, by bending the knees and cringing low.

Another plausible explanation is that after the great fire of London disputes as to ownership of land were settled by two surveyors whose names were Hook and Crook.

Quite different is the view taken by those who tell us that when Strongbow sailed for Ireland he instructed his men to make their attack by Hook, a promontory northeast of Waterford, or by Crook, a harbor on the south coast.

In any case, the phrase is very old, for it was used by Bacon (1550), by Skelton, the poet laureate (1500), and by Chaucer nearly 600 years ago.— Pearson's.

LUNAR SCENERY.

Its Appearance Proves the Moon's Lack of Air and Water.

It is by indirect methods of observation that scientists learn of the absence of atmosphere in the moon. There are various arguments that can be adduced, but the most conclusive is that obtained on the occurrence of what is called the occultation of a star. It sometimes happens that the moon comes directly between the earth and a star, and the temporary extinction of the latter is an occultation. We can observe the movement when it takes place, and the suddenness of the extinction of the star is extremely remarkable. If the moon had a copious atmosphere, the gradual interposition of this would produce a gradual extinction of the star and not the sudden phenomenon usually observed.

This absence of air and water from the moon explains the peculiar and weird ruggedness of the lunar scenery. We know that on the earth the action of the wind and of rain, of frost and of snow is constantly tending to wear down our mountains and reduce their hard outlines, but no such agents are at work upon the moon.

CAME NEAR DYING

From an Awful Skin Humour. Scratched Till Blood Ran. Wasted to Skeleton.

CURED BY CUTICURA

One Application Soothed Him to Sleep. Cure Speedy and Permanent.

"When my little boy was about three months old his head broke out with a rash, which was very itchy and ran considerable watery fluid. We tried everything we could, but he got worse all the time till it spread to his arms, legs, and then to his entire body, and he got so bad that he came near dying. The rash would itch so that he would scratch till the blood ran, and a thin yellowish stuff would be all over his pillow in the morning. I had to put mittens on his hands to keep him from tearing his skin around his wrists. He got so weak and run down that he took fainting spells like we would think him dying. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were thin like claws.

"He was bad about eight months when we tried Cuticura Remedies. I had not laid him down in his cradle in the daytime for a long time. He had got so that he just slept in our arms all the time. I washed him with Cuticura Soap and put on one application of Cuticura Ointment and he was so soothed that I put him in the cradle. You don't know how glad I felt when he felt better. It took one box of Cuticura Ointment, pretty near one cake of Cuticura Soap, and about half a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, to cure. I think our little boy would have died only for the Cuticura Remedies, and I shall always remain a firm friend of them."

MRS. M. C. MAITLAND, JASPER, ONTARIO.

No return in 14 years. Mrs. Maitland writes, under date of Feb. 24, 1903, that the cure is permanent.

"It affords me much pleasure to inform you that it is fourteen years since my boy was cured of the terrible skin disease from which he suffered.

"He has been permanently cured and is hearty and strong."

Jenetta's Fortune

[Original.]

In a shabbily furnished parlor sat Jenetta Macomber, aged nineteen, and her lover, Leon Wynne, ten years her senior.

"When you went to the lawyer who advertised for you, what did he say?"

"He asked me if I was Jenetta Macomber. I told him yes. Did my father go away when I was a baby? Yes. My mother's name? Caroline Swann. Then he told me that a fortune awaited me in California."

Leon shook his head. "There's some game in the wind," he said. "Well, good night. I'll see you before you go."

The next day Leon Wynne called upon Martin Cahoon, the lawyer who had advertised for Jenetta. He found a shrewd looking man, indeed one whom Leon saw at a glance would have no mercy in money matters.

"I have noticed," said the young man, "that you have advertised for Jenetta Macomber, sole heir to the estate of Andrew Macomber."

"I have," said the lawyer, bringing a pair of piercing eyes to bear on Leon.

"I am Andrew Macomber's only child. This Jenetta Macomber comes from another branch of the family. She is my cousin."

"Can you substantiate that?"

"I can."

Cahoon looked incredulous.

"See here," said Leon. "There's no use in you and me trying to fool each other. This girl is under my influence, and I can do what I like with her. You evidently know something about this fortune, if it exists, and I need your services. I have no money to prosecute the claim, either for expenses or court or lawyer's fees. What do you say to taking my case on shares? I'll give you half."

There was a look of cunning in the lawyer's eyes as he replied:

"If you are the sole heir and can establish the fact, of course I shall be happy to serve you."

"Very well. I will show you that I can do what I say. I'll see you tomorrow."

Leon went directly to Jenetta and told her the whole story. Then he drew up a paper confirming his claim to the property, and she signed it. The next day Leon took the paper to the lawyer. Cahoon looked at it, astonished. Then a crafty smile passed over his face.

"Well," said the client, "are you satisfied that you can trust me?"

"It's risky," replied the lawyer.

"Not half the risk of trying to work it through the girl, especially as I'm on to your game."

There was a good deal of sparring, at the end of which Leon left the office commissioned to go to Rio de Janeiro to endeavor to get possession of the fortune left by Andrew Macomber. It was plain that Cahoon had intended to send Jenetta to California to get her out of the way while he was working a scheme to secure possession of the inheritance in her name. This bit of luck in her relinquishment of her claim in favor of Leon Wynne put a new face on the matter and rendered the job far easier. Leon signed a paper agreeing, in lieu of advanced expenses, counsel fees, etc., to give Cahoon one-half the estate when obtained. When he left the office it was with a check for $500 with which to pay his way and living for a time at Rio. He went immediately to Jenetta.

"We must be married at once," he said, "and secretly."

"Why so?" she asked, astonished.

"Your father, so Cahoon says, has really died in Rio possessed of a fortune, and you are the only heir."

"In Rio?"

"Yes. Using the paper I asked you to sign, I have succeeded in unearthing the truth. I have agreed to give Cahoon one-half of the fortune if I get it. But, you see, sweetheart, I don't want it. It would be better for us to get it in your name and without this tremendous inheritance tax Cahoon has levied on us."

"But why are we to be married in such a hurry?"

"I have agreed to go at once and collect your fortune. I prefer to have your company, especially as you are the legal heir. As to the secrecy, notwithstanding that I hold the winning cards I don't dare to let Cahoon know that I have duped him. There's no knowing how he might trick us yet."

"When does the steamer leave?"

"In an hour. I may be watched by Cahoon or his spies to see if I sail on her, and I must not disappoint them, nor must it be known that you go with me. Once out on the ocean it will make no difference, but you must go to the ship without me, and it would be safer to go disguised. On second thought it may be dangerous for us to attempt a marriage. We'd better be married aboard the ship."

"But supposing there is no clergyman."

"In that case we'll have to wait till we reach Rio."

Just before the steamer sailed Leon Wynne went aboard. He had been preceded by an old woman whom he kept in sight till the ship moved off. Among the faces on the dock Leon recognized Cahoon. Taking a pair of green spectacles and a wig from the old woman beside him Leon revealed a young girl's face.

"Mr. Cahoon," he called, "let me introduce Miss Macomber."

The next moment Cahoon had disappeared in the crowd.

Fortunately the runaways found a clergyman on board to tie the knot, and on reaching Rio they found the story of the fortune to be correct and in due time secured it. When they returned Cahoon had removed his law offices to some place unknown.

CURED OF HIS CLUB.

The Way One Woman Kept Her Husband Home In the Evenings.

"I would be very happy if my husband would not spend so many of his evenings at the club," said Mrs. Bride, with a sigh.

"Why don't you try the suspicion cure?" said her intimate friend.

"What is the suspicion cure?" asked Mrs. Bride.

"Well, my husband once got into the habit of spending his evenings at his club, and I worried myself ill. Then I changed my tactics. Instead of asking him to remain at home I urged him to go to the club. The way he raised his eyebrows the first time I suggested it showed that I was on the right track.

"One night he said he had a severe headache and would remain at home. I opposed the idea and insisted that evening at his club would make him forget his headache. He gave me a hard look, but acted on the suggestion. I knew he would be back within an hour, so I made an elaborate toilet. He returned, as I expected, with the plea that his head was worse. I ignored his question concerning my elaborate toilet. He hasn't been away for an evening since. It is almost like the old honeymoon, only he appears to have something on his mind."

THE LOVING CUP.

Its Origin Dates From the Assassination of King Edward.

The remote origin of the loving cup dates from the story of the assassination of Edward, king and martyr, who was stabbed in the back while drinking. It had been usual at feasts to pass round a large cup, which each, as he rose to drink, lifted with both hands, exposing his body to attack. This custom was altered, so that when one stood up to drink he who sat next became his "pledge" and also rose, drawn sword in hand, to protect him.

This practice in a modified form continued long after changed conditions of society had ceased to need it and was the origin of our custom of drinking healths and particularly of the ceremonial, preserved in almost its primitive form, of passing round the loving cup, when, as each person rises and takes the cup in his hand to drink, the guest next to him also rises and grasps the second handle.

Some authorities ascribe its origin to Margaret, consort of Malcolm, king of Scotland, and others to Henry of Navarre.—London Truth.

THE WORD "MOB."

How It Worked Its Way Into the English Language.

The word "mob" is an abbreviation. It is nothing but a fragment of the full Latin original "mobile vulgus"—"the fickle common people." First the noun "vulgus" was dropped. "Mobile," coming into common use, was in a few years cut down to "mob." By Swift it was abominated to his dying day as a peculiarly odious kind of slang. Addison sympathized with this feeling. In No. 135 of the Spectator "mob" is put down by him as one of the ridiculous words which he fears will in time be looked upon as part of the speech. There must have been then a host of minor defenders of the purity of our tongue who bewailed its increasing use and pointed to that fact as evidence of the growing degeneracy of the language. But the assailed form stoutly held its ground and outlived its censurers. Addison's fears have been realized. The abbreviation has thoroughly established itself. Accordingly a word which their predecessors stigmatized as a corruption of the vilest kind is now used unhesitatingly by the most precise of modern jurists. The reason of its prevalence is obvious. It came to supply a very genuine want. There is no other single word that conveys definitely the idea of a particular sort of riotous assemblage.—Harper's.

Not In His Line.

Employer—You don't seem to be able to do anything. New Clerk—Well, I always had a political job until I struck this one.—Judge.

There have undoubtedly been bad great men, but inasmuch as they were bad they were not great.—Hunt.

A Boon to Humanity.

Mr. Thomas J. Coughlan of Lakeland, N. I can also heartily recommend the bitters as a blood purifier. It certainly is a boon to humanity.

Baxter's Mandrake Bitters has accomplished wonders for suffering humanity. It has rescued thousands of despairing victims of disease. Sold everywhere in liquid or tablets at 25 cents. L. M. Buehler.

Played Out.

That "played out"—"done up" feeling makes life miserable for every sufferer from Kidney ills, backaches, headaches and urinary troubles, painful and annoying.

Doan's Kidney Pills

bring new life and activity, remove the pain and cure the cause, from common backache to dangerous diabetes.

Mr. S. R. Bollinger, who resides at 426 South Dukes treet, bookkeeper at W. H. Heffener's cigar factory, York, Pa., says: "Backache became so frequent that not finding anything to cure it or even to relieve it I could not do a day's work without suffering. While trying one medicine after another my attention was attracted by an account of Doan's Kidney Pills in the papers, and of course they in turn were given a trial. I procured them at Hodnett's drug store. Before I had taken a box of them I had no backache. I could work at the desk as steadily as I liked and did not even get tired in the back."

For sale by all druggists; 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
